

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I want to acknowledge and thank the many people who assisted in the unfolding of this book from its inception as a basic training manual to its current status as a comprehensive, yet practical, reference tool for immigration practitioners. During that 16-year period, several staff from the Catholic Legal Immigration Network, Inc. (CLINIC), as well as other practitioners, assisted with creating and revising various chapters. The following is a catalogue of those who played a significant role. The portions of this book that first appeared in the publications identified below are reprinted with permission.

I originally wrote chapters 1–5 and 8. For the current edition I updated chapters 1–3, 5, 7 and 8. CLINIC attorney Kristina Karpinski updated chapter 4 and assembled those appendices. CLINIC attorneys Ilissa Mira and Brad Jenkins updated chapter 6. CLINIC managing attorney Susan Schreiber updated chapter 9.

Portions of chapter 5 first appeared in 90-03 Immigration Briefings (Mar. 1990), and evolved into a chapter in the Immigrants' Rights Manual, co-authored by CLINIC and the National Immigration Law Center (NILC). Portions of chapter 6 were originally written by NILC's Daniel Levy and first appeared in 91-08, 91-09 Immigration Briefings (Aug., Sept. 1991). This was later updated by NILC's Linton Joaquin and evolved into another chapter of the Immigrants' Rights Manual. The appendix to chapter 2 was provided by Sheryl Winareck, a practitioner in Silver Spring, MD.

Juan Osuna, when he was editor of Interpreter Releases, contributed the portion of chapter 7 on waivers to health-related grounds of inadmissibility, while I wrote other portions. CLINIC attorneys Kristina Karpinski and Jennie Guilfoyle expanded and updated this chapter for the second edition. The appendices containing sample waivers were provided by Maria Eveleth, New Hampshire Catholic Charities; David McHaffey from the firm Barker, Epstein & Loscocco; Sarah Flagel, Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Chicago; and Mary Holper, Boston College Immigration and Asylum Project.

Chapter 8 was adapted from several articles that originally appeared in AILA's Navigating the Fundamentals of Immigration Law (2008–09); 11 Bender's Immigr. Bull. 857 (Aug. 1, 2006); AILA's Immigration & Nationality Law Handbook (2002–2005 Eds.); 6 Bender's Immigr. Bull. 772 (Aug. 1, 2001); 5 Bender's Immigr. Bull. 125 (Feb. 1, 2000); 4 Bender's Immigr. Bull. 97 (Feb. 1, 1999); AILA's INS Forms for Applications and Petitions (4th Ed.); 98-06 Immigration Briefings 1 (June 1998); and 74 Interpreter Releases 1581 (Oct. 20, 1997).

Chapter 9 was adapted from an article written by former CLINIC attorney Anne Marie Gibbons that originally appeared in AILA's Handbook on Waivers and Relief from Removal. The chapter was later expanded by former CLINIC attorney Evangeline Abriel. Former CLINIC attorney Laurie Joyce wrote chapter 10, portions of which first appeared in 02-06 Immigration Briefings (June 2002), and later in Affidavit of Support and Sponsorship Requirements: A Practitioner's Guide, published by CLINIC and NILC. This chapter was updated and revised for the second edition by Debbie Smith and former CLINIC attorney Mary McClenahan. Thanks to all of you!

This publication wouldn't be possible without the help and guidance received from AILA staff Danielle Polen and Sarah Redzic. I would also like to acknowledge Tatia Gordon-Troy's continuing work with AILA on this publication.
