

ABOUT THE EDITORS

LINDSAY CHICHESTER KOREN is a vice president, associate general counsel for Darden Restaurants. Previously, she served as a senior director for international employment compliance and an assistant general counsel supporting Walmart on global employment and immigration matters. Prior to joining Walmart, Ms. Koren was an attorney with Dinsmore & Shohl in Cincinnati, where she counseled domestic and international clients on immigration and employment issues. Ms. Koren also served as an adjunct professor at the University of Dayton School of Law. Additionally, she served as a trial attorney with the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), representing the government in appellate litigation of immigration matters. Ms. Koren joined DOJ through the Attorney General Honors Program, and served as attorney advisor to the chief immigration judge. She received her B.A., summa cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, from Miami University and her J.D., cum laude, from Tulane University School of Law. She is admitted to practice in Ohio and Maryland, as well as before the Southern District of Ohio, and the U.S. Courts of Appeals for the First, Second, Fourth, Eighth, and Ninth Circuits.

JENNIFER DRUGAY COOK is senior counsel in the Immigration Law practice group in Clark Hill's Washington, D.C. office. Jennifer has represented individuals and businesses in immigration proceedings before federal courts, federal agencies, and in administrative agency hearings. Her clients have included Fortune 500 companies, hospitals and healthcare practices, start-up companies, small businesses, non-profit organizations, families, and individuals. Jennifer earned her J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center where she received the Dean's Award for Service to the Law Center. She was on the staff of the Georgetown Journal of Legal Ethics, and received an Equal Justice Foundation public interest fellowship. Jennifer earned her B.A., magna cum laude, from Georgetown University. She is licensed to practice in the District of Columbia and Maryland. Jennifer has been listed in Super Lawyers. She is the creator of the web comic Scenes From the Immigration Bar, and prior to practicing law, Jennifer had a career in arts administration, art instruction, and professional illustration.

LINDSAY A. CURCIO is a solo practitioner in Brooklyn, NY, and has served as an adjunct professor at New York Law School and Molloy College. With Lenni Benson, Veronica Jeffers, and Stephen Yale-Loehr, she co-authored Immigration and Nationality Law: Problems and Strategies, published by Lexis/Matthew Bender/Carolina Academic Press. Lindsay has received the "Super Lawyers" designation for immigration. She was awarded a B.A. in Spanish from Northwestern University, a J.D. from IIT-Chicago Kent College of Law, an M.B.A. from Fordham University, an LL.M. in transnational commercial practice at the Center for International Legal Studies/Lazarski University, and a graduate certificate in health care compliance from the University of Pittsburgh Law School. Lindsay is an active member of the American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA), and the National Writers Union where she is a volunteer contract advisor.

MICHELLE GERGERIAN is a partner in the Boston office of Seyfarth Shaw LLP, and has more than 19 years of experience in immigration and nationality law, specializing in both temporary nonimmigrant visa petitions and permanent employment- and family-based immigrant visa petitions. Ms. Gergerian is the head of Seyfarth's Global Immigration practice and has extensive experience in temporary and permanent Canadian immigration options for employees of multinational corporations. Prior to joining Seyfarth, Ms. Gergerian served as the director of education for AILA in Washington, D.C. She has served as the managing editor of numerous AILA publications and as a presenter on immigration and nonprofit association management issues. Ms. Gergerian earned her J.D. from Suffolk University Law School and a Bachelor of Science degree in political science with a concentration in law, politics, and the courts from Suffolk University. She is an active member of AILA at the national and local chapter levels.

NOAH KLUG is the principal of Klug Law Firm PLLC in New York City. He is listed in Who's Who Legal and rated AV Preeminent by Martindale-Hubbell. In 2012, Mr. Klug founded a new AILA chapter for the Asia Pacific region, the Bangkok District Chapter, and served as its inaugural chair. He also is the past co-chair of the ABA Immigration Committee, member of the AILA Business Immigration Committee, and past Steering Committee member of AILA's Global Migration Section. Mr. Klug has authored over 30 immigration law publications, contributed to major immigration studies, and co-edited the AILA treatises Navigating the Fundamentals of Immigration Law and The Consular Practice Handbook.

CHRISTINE POPP is partner with Popp & Bullman, Attorneys-at-Law, in Bloomington, IN, where she practices immigration law exclusively. Prior to going into private practice in 2012, she was the director of the Immigrants' and Language Rights Center of Indiana Legal Services, and she worked for several years as an immigration staff attorney for the organization. She handles a wide variety of immigration matters, including all family-based immigration, naturalization, asylum and other humanitarian statuses, removal, student-related issues, and many others. Christine graduated from Vermont Law School in 2005, and from Indiana University, Bloomington in 2001, with a degree in Latin American Studies and a minor in Spanish. She currently serves as the vice chair of the AILA Indiana Chapter, and previously served as the chapter secretary. She serves on the AILA VAWA, Us, and Ts Committee, and also served on the AILA Board of Publications and the AILA Pro Bono Committee. Christine has authored several articles for AILA publications and presented at several AILA conferences.

IRENE SCHARF, Professor of Law, University of Massachusetts School of Law-Dartmouth, teaches the Law School's Immigration Law Clinic, which she founded in 2002. In her lengthy career, she has practiced immigration law and engaged in significant scholarship in both immigration and tort law. One of her most influential scholarly works was published in 1988 by Duke Law Journal, "What Process is Due? Unaccompanied Minors' Rights to Deportation Hearings" (co-authored). She has recently published on the U.S. definition of torture, "Untorturing the Definition of Torture and Applying the Rule of Immigration Lenity," 66 Rutgers Law Review 1 (Fall 2013); her next work, "Second-Class Citizenship: The Plight of Naturalized Special Immigrant Juveniles," will be published in December 2018 by the Cardozo Law Review.